

SMITH RIDDLES MILLS'S MILK ISSUE

Governor Ends Campaign Tonight At Metropolitan

Following a parting shot at William Randolph Hearst and the milk issue which he created for Representative Ogden L. Mills, Governor Smith tonight will conclude his campaign for re-election with a speech in the Metropolitan Opera House.

Justice Robert F. Wagner, Democratic nominee for United States senator, also ends his drive tonight and will appear with the governor. Mr. Mills and Senator James W. Wadsworth, however, will continue speaking up to the day of election, Tuesday, in a final effort to swing a few more votes.

Gov. Smith

The milk issue, already riddled, was literally torn to pieces by the governor in a speech in the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, last night. He stressed the treatment by Mr. Mills of Justice Kelby, Brooklyn Republican, who is investigating the milk situation.

"Under all the circumstances, whom do you think the people will believe; Judge Kelby, a long and respected member of the Republican party in this county and for years a justice in the Supreme Court, or Ogden L. Mills, campaigning with the irresponsible and degrading Hearst methods?"

Observing that it is always easier to answer intelligent arguments than the other kind, "such as come from Hearst," the governor set out to refute points in Mr. Mills' favor given by former Gov. Charles E. Hughes.

"If this state was a large business corporation," Gov. Smith concluded, "I am satisfied that, with the record, Gov. Hughes would have to select me if he were a heavy stockholder in it."

Smith a Luxury, Mills Declares

Representative Ogden L. Mills made economy and efficiency in government his chief issue in speeches in Westchester county last night.

He declared that Gov. Smith was a luxury to the taxpayers of the state, while President Coolidge, because of his economies, was a necessity.

Smith Still Leading Straw Vote Despite Mills's Gains

ROCHESTER, Oct. 30.—Mills and Wadsworth have taken a big jump in the Times-Union straw vote poll being secured in co-operation with newspapers in Syracuse, Binghamton, Buffalo, Elmira, Albany, Utica and Watertown.

The totals now are: Smith, 14,817; Mills, 14,158; Wagner, 9,479; Wadsworth, 15,474; Cristman, 3,217.

Model Machine Illustrates Use Of Voting Device

Only one minute is required to cast a ballot on the voting machines installed in fourteen Assembly Districts, according to an announcement by the Board of Elections.

In order to eliminate confusion, a model machine will be installed for demonstration purposes. After illustrating the simple mechanism of the device, the voter will be taken to the booth.

If a straight ticket is desired, one pull at the specified lever on the left is all that is needed. In case the voter wants to split his ticket, the individual levers above the candidates' names must be used.

Curb Volstead Is Bloom's Aim

Representative Sol Bloom, Republican candidate for re-election in the Nineteenth District, will lead the fight for light wines and beers in case he is sent back to Congress.

He already has introduced a bill calling for a modification of the prohibition act.

In a statement of his aims, Representative Bloom said today:—

"I hope with all my heart that the next term will see the passing of a bill modifying the Eighteenth Amendment to permit the selling of light wines and beer. Perhaps the drastic methods of the amendment as it stands were necessary to accomplish its purpose, but I believe that the time has come for a sensible and practical modification of the law."

Why Hearst Hates Smith

In a keen analysis of William Randolph Hearst, bitter foe of Al Smith, W. B. Roulstone asserts that the champion of Mills hates Smith because the Governor has something which the editor is held to lack—"manly character." This article makes one of the most stirring of the series.

ARTICLE IV.

By W. B. ROULSTONE

The publication in yesterday's Hearst paper of the governor's happy face beside that of the great Lincoln was intended as a sneer at Smith.

The governor's happy face does not suffer by comparison with the solemn features of the martyred Lincoln, in which are deeply written the lines of sadness, humility and strength.

The Hearst cartoon makes thoughtful men realize again that the real face in this campaign is Hearst's, and the real issue is the editor. Back of Ogden Mills is clearly seen the countenance of William Randolph Hearst. No sadness, no humility, no strength in that face; only a long nose, narrow eyes close-set, the Napoleonic cowl and the lines of selfishness, envy and hatred, "with malice for all."

Smith's face has strength and intelligence in every line of it, hap-
